

Miscellaneous and Unclassified

- Leo II Quotation and specification. An individual who worked for Thorn/EMI found a manuscript quotation and technical specification for a LEO II c. 1958. The LEO II was valued at about £180,000.

A copy can be found in Dropbox at

<https://www.dropbox.com/s/wy3xirkff35nae9/LEO%20II%201958%20Quote.pdf?dl=0>

- ❖ Retronaut Website: 1952 Behind the Scenes at Lyons. Pictures and text about Lyons with a mention of them as computer pioneers. <https://retronaut.com/content/1952-behind-the-scenes-at-lyons>
- Greater London Industrial Archaeology Society: as part of their regular lecture series, Dan Heaton, a member is repeating has been invited to provide a session on LEO, based on the earlier CCs session. www.glias.org.uk
- ❖ LEO Computer Society Zoom Forum (Winter 2020), A new initiative during the pandemic to establish a forum where members of LCS could meet via Zoom to reminisce and discuss activities furthering the aims of the Society and the Lottery Heritage Fund LEO project commenced in November 2020. Vince Bodsworth has posted all the mp4 videos of all four Forua held on the LCS Website. <https://www.leo-computers.org.uk/members/>

These are 7 videos: Zoom 1, Zoom 2 Plenary, Zoom 2 Breakout Room 1 (Daines), Zoom 2 Breakout Room 2 First Half (Paschoud), Zoom 2 Breakout Room 2 Second Half (Paschoud), 3rd Forum, 4th Forum

Lyons Office Journal

See entry for London Metropolitan Library and Reference to article above.

Corby and the Electronic Brain

Exhibition Starts, Saturday 17th July 2021 and finishes on Saturday 6th November 2021

Corby Heritage Centre

You may think Corby is not the place to have connections with computer heritage but you would be wrong. From the LEO II computer at Stewarts and Lloyds, the Commodore 64 and to the present day with the Raspberry PI distributed by RS Components, Corby's links with computers span very nearly 60 years.

Visit the LEO II exhibition and delve into Corby's computer heritage.

Venue Address

Corby Heritage Centre
75—77 High Street,
Corby, Northamptonshire,
NN17 1UU

For more information contact;

Billy Dalziel on 01536 464284 or 07500 066319

E-mail: billy.dalziel@northnorthants